Must Settle Tax Or Be Dismissed

President Collier's Statement, Suggesting Drastic Measures To Bring About Settlement of the Tax Situation; Says Students Having Signed Cards Must Fulfill Obligation to the University or Be Dropped From the Rolls.

"Unless the 250 students who have been delinquent in paying their Voluntary Tax for the first semester pay such obligation at once I shall be obliged to ask authority from the Board of Trustees to strike their names from the rolls of the University," is the statement issued by President William Miller Collier, when informed by the Director of Student Activities of the outstanding obligations.

"While subscription to this tax is purely voluntary, yet when the subscription is made it becomes a pecuniary obligation as well as a debt of honor. I believe all those who have subscribed will, upon consideration, promptly pay the same," the statement reads.

President Collier's statement was issued after consideration of a letter from Bryan Morse, the Director of Student Activities, which is as follows:

February 25, 1921.

President William Miller Collier, The George Washington University, Washington, D. C.

Dear Sir: At the direction of the Board of Managers I am writing to call your attention again to the fact that more than 250 students have failed to pay their Voluntary Activity Tax for the first semester.

It is urgent that the matter be given immediate attention and that the collection of the sum of money due the Student Activity Fund be made at once. It is vitally essential that this money pledged to the support of student activities be collected so that the plans made for the year can be carried out without facing a very serious deficit at the end of the year.

The Board of Managers and the Director of Student Activities feel that the success of the program depends, this year and for the years that follow, upon the collection of every cent due the Activity Fund. Except for one or two activities which are able to support themselves, all of the contemplated activities are a drain upon the Student Activity Fund until such time as the athletic program shall be on a paying basis.

Considerable financial loss was sustained in football owing to the fact that the schedule of games called for the expenditure of a large sum of money in starting the sport and in maintaining the team. The big football game of the year failed to return any revenue to the treasury, whereas more than $1,500 was expected on Thanksgiving Day. The change of the time and place of playing the game at the instance of the clergy of Washington brought about a situation which demanded that the game be played and that the receipts above actual expenses be turned over to charity.

It is the belief of the Board of Managers and the Director of Student Activities that with the collection of the money due the Activity Fund the program of activities, somewhat curtailed, can be successfully pursued. It is urgent that immediate action be taken to collect this money. Neither the board nor the director can be held responsible for this sum, inasmuch as the pledge was voluntary on the part of the students and is covered in the minutes of the Board of Trustees of the University for May, 1916.

Yours very truly,

(Signed) BRYAN MORSE.

ISSUE NOTICE TO STUDENTS.

The following is the official statement issued by President Collier relative to the serious situation which has arisen through neglect of many students to fulfill their obligation to pay the tax for which they signed:

"I have been informed that 250 students have been delinquent in paying the Voluntary Activity Tax. While subscription to this tax is purely voluntary, yet when the subscription is made it becomes a pecuniary obligation as well as a debt of honor.

"I believe that all those who have subscribed will, upon consideration of the letter of Mr. Bryan Morse, Director of Student Activities, hereto attached promptly pay the same.

"If, however, this is not done, I shall be obliged as president to ask authority from the trustees to strike from the rolls of the University the names of all students who do not make to the Director of Student Activities a satisfactory explanation and obtain from him a written statement that special circumstances justify the granting of an extension of time.

LAW DEPARTMENT REGISTRATION

The registrar of the Law Department of George Washington University announces that the total registration in that department has reached 893. Of this number, a little over 15 per cent are women, there being a total of 135 co-eds in the Law School. Every class is larger this year than ever before except that of the first year. The sophomore class is approximately twice as large as last year's second year class. The faculty is very much pleased to have 100 students in the morning classes. A tentative plan is to the effect that next year there will be instituted a junior morning class, which will make it possible for a student to take all his law classes in the forenoon.

It is expected that the registration in this department will reach the 900 mark in the next few weeks.

G. W. LEADS CONTEST AT SECOND STAGE

22 Points in Lead at Close of Second Stage in Intercollegiate Rifle Matches.

At the close of the second of the ten stages in the Intercollegiate Rifle Matches, George Washington University team is leading in the race for the cup by 22 points. There are 31 of the nation's largest universities participating in this match. Teams from Harvard, Yale and Cornell are among the contestants for the intercollegiate championship trophy. The teams participating in the match shoot ten targets each week, the five highest counting in the match. Alternate weeks the shooting is done from a prone and standing position.

The George Washington team has made 499 out of a possible 500. Each time the shooting has been from a prone position. Walter Stokes has made the highest average so far, shooting two perfect targets from prone and 98 and 91 out of a possible 100 standing.

The following is an extract from the official report of George Washington's score for the stages of the match, already completed.

First week (firing from a standing position); the highest score any man may make is 100: Stokes, 98; Espey, 87; McNish, 89; Hastings, 85; Barkman, 83; total, 442.

Second week (prone position): Stokes, 100; Espey, 100; McNish, 100; Hastings, 100; Barry, 99; total, 499.

Third week (standing position): Stokes, 91; Espey, 86; Barkman, 91; Hastings, 89; Barry, 84; total, 441.

Fourth week (prone position): Stokes, 100; Barkman, 100; Webb, 100; Barry, 100; McNish, 99; total, 499.

Walter R. Stokes, manager of the George Washington rifle team, recently broke the world's record by making a score of 999 out of a possible 1,000 under the conditions specified in the individual championship matches held by the American Small Bore Rifle League. This score means that out of 100 shots, every one was within the bull's-eye, except one, which was in the ring just outside of the bull's-eye. It is very encouraging to the University to have a man of such exceptional ability as a rifle shot at the head of its team in the sport.

"I believe that the next time the team shoots in a prone position that the score can be made perfect; that is, every man on the team whose target is counted makes 100 out of 100," said Manager Stokes in reference to the team's prospects.

ARCHITECTS TO HEAR GINDER.

The Architectural Club has arranged to have Mr. Ginder, chief of the division of computing and specifications of the supervising architect's office, Treasury Department, address them at their next meeting, which will be held Tuesday, March 8, at 8 p. m., in the Assembly Hall. The Engineering Society has been invited to attend the meeting and hear the lecture.

Three Hundred At Junior Prom

Second Junior Prom, Product of Junior Classes Combine, Held at Rauscher's; Unparalleled at University; Crowd Exceeds Expectations; Fraternities and Classes Decorate Boxes in Ballroom.

Junior Week reached its climax Thursday night, February 24, with the Junior Prom, when more than 250 couples marched gallantly over the superbly waxed floor of Le Maison Rauscher to the strains of Sousa's "Our Director," rendered by Meyer Davis' eight piece orchestra. Eight fraternity and three class boxes, beautifully decorated in University and fraternity colors and in those which commemorate the birthday of the Father of Our Country, and the namesake of our University, added variety and picturesque attraction to the setting of the ballroom. The Junior Prom was a momentous affair; taking as last year, an unparalleled place in the social life of George Washington University. Last year there came the inspiration to a few of the Juniors to begin this greater social activity and to have it take the place of foremost interest, as it does in most of the universities over the United States.

LAW SCHOOL STUDENTS FORM OHIO CLUB OF G. W.

Other State Clubs Are Expected To Gain Headway at University; Brock Elected President.

At a meeting of the Ohio students in the Law School held on the evening of March 1, a permanent club under the name of "The Ohio Club of George Washington University Law School" was formed. A constitution was adopted and the following officers were elected: President, Howard M. Brock; vice president, Miss Olive E. Geiser; secretary, Homer H. Kirby; treasurer, Miss Philomora Wilgus.

Several meetings have been held by the students from the Buckeye State since late in December, at which considerable interest and enthusiasm have been manifested. The culmination of these efforts has been the launching of the club, which is the first one of its kind to be formed in the George Washington University. The purposes of the club, as stated in the constitution, are to further the interests of the Law School by interesting the citizens of the State of Ohio in the school and to familiarize the Ohio students with the law and practice of their home State.

It was stated by the leaders of the movement that they hoped the club would draw the Ohio students together and develop a concerted interest in the study of the current development of law in their native State.

Dean Ferson has been an enthusiastic supporter of the movement since its inception. He made the following statement to a representative of the club: "I believe this organization will be of invaluable service to the school in the matter of disseminating its ideals and spirit throughout your State, and I earnestly hope that students from other States will take up the idea and follow your precedent."

ALL-STAR BOWLERS DEFEAT SIGMA NU

Third Game Develops Highest Score in Recent Years of Frat. History.

Bowling among the fraternities was held for the last time this season when an all-star team made up of representatives from five fraternities, defeated Sigma Nu two games out of three on Saturday, February 26, at the Arcade. The first game was won by the All-Stars, 468 to 430, and the second game, 476 to 449. In the last game both teams made higher scores than have been made by any George Washington fraternity in recent years, and it was said by some to have been the most spectacular. Sigma Nu won the last game by the score of 532 to 530.

The averages for the Sigma Nu team were as follows: Bopst, 94; Cates, 98; C. Tolson, 83; B. Tolson, 101; Yates, 95; Keblor, 94. For the All-Stars, Shinnick, Kappa Sigma, 106; McCullen, Kappa Alpha, 93; Read, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, 86; Rosenlund, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, 99; Scharf, Delta Tau Delta, 103; and Neill, Theta Delta Chi, 96.

CHEMICAL SOCIETY MEETS.
The next meeting of the Chemical Society will be held Wednesday, March 9, at 8 p. m., at the Medical Building on H Street. The meeting will be followed by a supper, served by Phi Sigma.

Dancing started promptly at 10 o'clock and lasted until 2. A little before the hour to begin, a rush of automobiles started piling up 10 and 12 deep before the entrance, reminding one of an inaugural ball. The large number of programs which the committee had thought sufficient ran out early in the evening. The dancers invaded every possible room available for dancing and were almost unable to find sufficient room for the extraordinary crowd. All available chairs were pressed into service during intermission.

The fraternities represented were Sigma Chi, Kappa Sigma, Theta Delta Chi, Sigma Phi Epsilon, Delta Tau Delta, Phi Sigma Kappa, Sigma Nu and Sigma Alpha Epsilon. Fraternity boxes were placed along the two mirrored sides of the ballroom. Each box was decorated with fraternity colors and each had its especial coat of arms placed on the front of the dividing partition. Three or four chairs were arranged in each box especially for the fair damsels. The most beautifully decorated boxes were those of the different classes of George Washington. The Class of 1921, '22 and '24 had fine magnificent "salons de lounges."

J. Fuller Spoerri held the position of chairman of the Junior Prom committee, and he is largely responsible for the splendid success of the affair, both financially and socially. J. Foster Hagan, chairman of the entire Junior Week committee, was also instrumental in making the Prom such a huge success, as was the Junior reception and play.

The council of presidents of the Junior Class is composed as follows: Robert W. Pulliam, Columbian College; John G. Ladd, College of Engineering; L. Brooks - Hayes, Law School; Gladys R. Twele, Teachers' College; and H. Eugene Cole, Medical School.

Meyer Davis ably upheld his wide reputation for wonderful music. From one second after ten o'clock until the end of "Home, Sweet Home," his music never lagged. The eight pieces were the pick of his "tribe" and could have withstood the competition of any imported orchestra. The xonophonic gave "kick" to the two saxophones and the drums added all the finishing touches.

The programs were fitting gifts for the ladies. The covers were card cases of drab-colored kid, with the insignia of George Washington University impressed in gold on the outside front cover. Inside were three fillers with the names of all the Junior Class officers and the order of dances, with the selection played by the orchestra and the type of dance.

After the tenth dance, which was a moonlight waltz played to the low and mellow strains of "Kiss Me Again," refreshments were served, consisting of brick ice cream and candy cakes.

WANTS POEM ABOUT G. W.; WILL SET BEST ONE TO MUSH

A school song is very much in demand now that the Glee Club has become such an important factor in the activities of the University. The Glee Club has recognized this need and is going to take steps to produce a suitable song that will immortalize the University in music. All the students of the University who have poetic tendencies are requested by the Glee Club to turn their talents to the very practical and useful occupation of supplying one of the school's most urgent needs.

WASHINGTON, D. C., MARCH 4, 1921

The Second Century

George Washington University has just completed a rather elaborate celebration marking the one hundredth anniversary of its existence. The University has rounded a sharp curve in the path of its progress. Behind lies a narrow road, rough in many places, and all up grade. Ahead the road widens and leads out into the open where as heretofore the progress of the University has been at times obscure. A tendency of extreme progressiveness has seized the school and the advancement has been rapid in the last few months. A reaction against mediocrity has set in. Withal, though, the rapid strides toward fame that the institution has made in the last year can be attributed to a very small percentage of the entire student body. A relatively few energetic students and faculty members have, against the most adverse conditions and with scant material, wrought a wonderful change for the better in George Washington University. From a dead, humdrum school following the line of least resistance has been born a University, seething with activities and spirit. The potentialities of a great institution of learning have been raised from the depths of obscurity and the machinery of progress set into motion. The ultra conservative and disinterested element at the school cannot now stop the ever-increasing tendency that is making George Washington a real University, but they can reduce the speed of progress. It then becomes a necessity to combat disinterestedness. This can best be accomplished by those students who have a spark of interest in the affairs of the school to fan it into flame and step out from the mediocrity that surrounds indifference. One hundred years are gone. Make the second century of the University's life a history of progress. Get into the swim. Do your share.

COLUMBIAN DEBATING SOCIETY HOLDS MEETING AT LAW SCHOOL

"Resolved, That the United States Should Cancel the English War Debt" was the practical question and subject of the informal debate of the Columbian Debating Society at its last meeting, held on Friday, February 18, in the Alumni Room at the Law School Building. The question was hotly contested by both sides, although there could scarcely have been any doubt even at the outset as to how the verdict would be rendered. The negative had everything on their side and was unanimously announced to be the winner. The sides were arranged as follows: Affirmative—Ashby Bladen and John C. Frey; negative—George Hughs and William French. Mr. French, of the negative, won the first place as an individual speaker, and Mr. Bladen was named as second.

THANKS UNIVERSITY FOR JUNIOR WEEK'S SUCCESS

Declares Event a Wonderful Success and Established Tradition at George Washington.

At the conclusion of Junior Week, with its various functions, running from February 21 to 28, The Hatchet received a letter from the president of the Columbian College Juniors, Robert Pulliam, in which was expressed the appreciation of those who managed the Junior Week celebration to all of the members and friends of George Washington for their cooperation.

In his letter the president of the Columbian College Juniors wrote: "The Junior Class of George Washington University wishes to thank the student body for their enthusiastic cooperation and support, which made possible a successful Junior Week. The success of Junior Week was not due so much to the council of presidents, not so much to the Junior Week committee or to the committees assigned to the various events as to the whole-hearted support and cooperation of every individual member of all of the Junior classes, as well as the student body at large.

"The faculty has generously cooperated and to some of its members the class owes a debt of gratitude that cannot soon be repaid. The class is indeed grateful to Prof. DeWitt C. Croissant, who by his individual attention made possible the staging of our amateur production, and to Mr. Elmer Louis Kayser and Mr. Bryan Morse, who placed the facilities of the University at our disposal and constantly gave us the benefit of their advice and counsel.

"From the outset it was intended that Junior Week should be an occasion for the entire University instead of any particular college. Last year Junior Week was an innovation. We hope that it has now become a tradition. If by our efforts we have drawn together the scattered departments of the University in a closer bond of friendship and contributed toward the development of a real George Washington spirit—a real University consciousness that will make for a greater G. W. U.—we feel that the efforts of the Junior Class will have been amply repaid. ROBERT W. PULLIAM."

What Is Air Pressure?

THE air is composed of molecules. They constantly bombard you from all sides. A thousand taps by a thousand knuckles will close a barn door. The taps as a whole constitute a push. So the constant bombardment of the air molecules constitutes a push. At sea-level the air molecules push against every square inch of you with a total pressure of nearly fifteen pounds.

Pressure, then, is merely a matter of bombarding molecules.

When you boil water you make its molecules fly off. The water molecules collide with the air molecules. It takes a higher temperature to boil water at sea-level than on Pike's Peak. Why? Because there are more bombarding molecules at sea-level—more pressure.

Take away all the air pressure and you have a perfect vacuum. A perfect vacuum has never been created. In the best vacuum obtainable there are still over two billion molecules of air per cubic centimeter, or about as many as there are people on the whole earth.

Heat a substance in a vacuum and you may discover properties not revealed under ordinary pressure. A new field for scientific exploration is opened.

Into this field the Research Laboratories of the General Electric Company have penetrated. Thus one of the chemists in the Research Laboratories studied the disintegration of heated metals in highly exhausted bulbs. What happened to the glowing filament of a lamp, for example? The glass blackened. But why? He discovered that the metal distilled in the vacuum depositing on the glass.

This was research in pure science—research in what may be called the chemistry and physics of high vacua. It was undertaken to answer a question. It ended in the discovery of a method of filling lamp bulbs with an inert gas under pressure so that the filament would not evaporate so readily. Thus the efficient gas-filled lamp of today grew out of a purely scientific inquiry.

So, unforeseen, practical benefits often result when research is broadly applied.

GIRLS' VARSITY HOLDS
 SWARTHMORE TO TIE

Co-Eds From Swarthmore College Win
 Game in Extra Five Minutes of Play.

The girls' varsity played a tie game with the co-ed basketballers from Swarthmore last Saturday night, February 26. At the final whistle of the game the score stood 20-all. An additional five minutes was granted in which to break the tie, which persisted throughout the game. During the additional five minutes of play the Swarthmore team managed to nab an extra 2 points, thus making the final score 22-20 in Swarthmore's favor. The game was uncertain during the entire period, as neither side made any appreciable gain over the other. At no time during the entire evening was either side very far in the lead. The teams were very well matched, although the Buff and Blue team was superior in the factor of individual players. Fewer fouls were called on the G. W. team than on that of Swarthmore. The team representing George Washington was composed as follows: Pickering and Woodford, forwards; Eckert, center; Proctor, side-center; and Degrangle and Durham, guards. There were two substitutions during the progress of the game: Roberson for Pickering and Duffles for Degrangle.

INTERCOLLEGIATE SPORT
 GOSSIP.

By Robert H. McNeil.

Baseball is in the air. Many schools have called out candidates and put the battery men to work in the cage, working out the stiffness of their twirling wings. Cornell had more than 80 men report to her first baseball practice, while Harvard started with 50 recruits. Sickness hit the ranks of the University of West Virginia basketball squad so hard that the coach had to use his freshman players to fill out the depleted ranks of his veterans.

A triangular track meet between Brown, Columbia and Wesleyan has been arranged for May 14.

Princeton will be the scene of two interscholastic contests next month, the wrestling and gym finals being scheduled to be held in the Princeton gym March 18 and 19.

Harvard was recently snowed under by Dartmouth in a loosely played basketball game. The Crimson team was defeated by the score of 51-15.

Holy Cross is planning a large baseball season, as it has arranged a 40-game schedule, one of the longest ever attempted by a college. It will take a southern tour the latter part of March.

A SECOND "GHOST" WILL APPEAR IN JUNE WEEK

This Magazine To Be a Part of the Publication at George Washington in the Future.

A new publication, "The Ghost," makes its appearance at George Washington University. This issue is dedicated to Centennial Week and there will be one more issue this year, which will make its appearance before Commencement Week. "The Ghost" contains everything that is wanted in a humorous magazine—from pen portraits of fascinating society to jokes and witticisms. The publishers embrace the Art Society and others in George Washington who are especially gifted in the ability of writing.

This issue of "The Ghost" brings to light many of the laughable incidents which took place during Junior and Centennial week. It is a well-edited magazine, in that it is not restricted, but embraces points which will be of interest to others outside of George Washington University. It is the aim of the publishers to sell it to the public, especially the alumni of the University.

The creation of this periodical is a perceptible advance for the field of school publications at the University, and merits hearty congratulation from the students to those who undertook the production of the first copy during the Centennial of our University.
